Twin City Basements Flooded;
Roads Swamped in Torrential Rains.

[By ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Paul.—Torrential downpours early Monday, which flooded basements and streets in the Twin Cities and highways in the country, followed severe wind storms of tornado proportions, which resulted in four known deaths in the northwest Sunday.

The stormy weather brought an end to a prolonged heat spell in the northwest. Sunday afternoon the maximum temperature was 90 degrees and early Monday morning it was 82. There was a drop of more than 20 degrees in slightly more than an hour after the storm.

Miss Thora Brain, 24, St. Paul, was killed here when an automobile in which she was riding collided with a street car. She was slightly injured, and he became lost in a cloud of dust during the storm and did not see or hear the car.

Former Badger Drown

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pierce, of St. Paul, formerly of Madison, were drowned when their boat capsized at Turtle Lake, near St. Paul during the storm.

Clarence N. McIlvane, of Huron, a prominent capitalist of that state, was drowned at Byron Lake, S. D., when his boat capsized in the windstorms.

Considerable damage to property resulted from small tornadoes, Minnesota-North Dakota boundary in the vicinity of Breckenridge, Minn., and Wahpeton, Dwight and Abercrombie.

Reports Are Misper

On the other side of Minnesota, similar condition prevailed near Hinckley, Sandstone and Pine City. Because of interrupted communication, only meager reports were available from those places today.

At Osseo, near Minneapolis, Henry Scott, farmer, sought shelter from the storm by seeking his automobile in his barn. The storm wrecked the barn but the automobile and Scott escaped without injury.

TWO AREAS DEVASTATED
BY SUNDAY TORNADOES

[By ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Superior—Widespread areas of great fury, accompanied by thousands of rain streaks and devastated two widely separated areas of the northwest late Sunday afternoon. Damages wrought by the "twisters" will mount into thousands of dollars.

A Minon and Chitino, Wis., about 50 miles south of this, at 4 p. m. Sunday. Windows of buildings at both towns were sucked from their frames by the wind. Small buildings were overturned on every hand and scores of giant pines and maple trees were uprooted or broken by the wind. On farms in the region scores of silos were overturned or wrecked, barns destroyed and roofs blown from homes and other buildings.

At Chitino, the roof of the general store was lifted from the building and hurled into the air for a distance of about 50 feet. The stock of feed, grain and groceries, valued at about $10,000, was ruined by the torrents of rain which poured into the building.

TWO PERISH, SCORES HURT,
WIDE AREA LAID WASTE

Aberdeen, S. D.—Two persons are said to have perished and scores of others were injured when a tornado laid waste to a wide stretch of prosperous farming country for 40 miles, in the vicinity of Reeder and Hettig, N. D., Adams county, Sunday night, according to word received here Monday.

Transportation and Credit.

President Harding tackled the job of converting the farmer to an enhanced interest in republicanism by dwelling on two basic questions—transportation, which means freight

Cannot Possess Liquor in the Home

Madison—There is a general misunderstanding of the recent supreme court decision in the case of state against Baste involving the right to possess home distilled intoxicating liquor in Wisconsin, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general declared in an opinion today.

He advised that the interpretation of the court opinion given by some attorneys that intoxicants might legally be possessed in homes if home manufacturers was not the correct one. The attorney general's department set out specifically that "it is a violation of the state prohibition law for a person to have in his possession privately manufactured distilled liquor without permit."

The Baste case, according to Mr. Messerschmidt, was determined on a technical point of law, and did not involve the right to possess liquor in homes.

It will be at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium, and a packed house should be there to greet Judge Wade at that time.

There will be other addresses and papers at the meeting of the Bar Association but this is not only for members of the bar or for laymen, and all citizens are interested in this one feature of a great convention.

Madison Citizens
Demand Big Probe

Madison—The local law enforcement committee of 100 Monday afternoon presented a petition to the legislature, through Senator H. J. Severson, asking a senate investigation of charges of malfeasance on the part of state officials. Senator Severson announced that another resolution, providing for an inquiry into alleged illegal activities of state department heads and officials, probably would follow.

Demand Full Probe

The petition of the local committee, headed by Robert M. Nelson, former district attorney, and Thomas Gales, district superintendent of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League, follows:

"Whereas, many charges of malfeasance in office of the state officials, both elective and appointive, and the heads of certain departments of the state government have been made, and no public denial thereof made; and whereas, the interest of good government and the public welfare demands that said charges be fully investigated and the truth made known; and whereas, the executive committee of 100, composed of leading business and professional men and women of the city of Madison, through their executive committee, respectfully petition the state legislature, by senator or joint resolution, to appoint a committee to conduct a full investigation of all charges that have been, or may hereafter be made concerning the official conduct of the officers of the state."

Covers Wide Field

"It is to be noted," said Senator Severson, "that this request for an investigation is not to cover violations of the prohibition laws by state officials, but is broadened to cover charges of malfeasance in office. The committee making an inquiry is made up of the leading citizens of Madison who, for two years, have been in close touch with activities in the state government."

"There is another request to the senators to look into these charges, and it will be seen whether or not the legislature is willing to look into matters."

Information was made that Senator Edger T. Ridgewell, whose charges of tax evasion had his vote on the tax issue were refuted by Governor Blaine, may demand an investigation of the whole affair.

SELECT GUERNSEY EXHIBITION HERD

Guernsey candidates for the Rock County Fair, Beldot, June 20, were lined up by Mr. W. A. Nish, Janesville, named by the county association to encourage fair exhibits and J. C. Nishet. The Rock County Guernsey association is working on a good development program, one part of which is a strong exhibit at the Janesville fair.

Nearly every selected breeder of Guernseys will have one or more animals at the Janesville fair, and there are prospects of a grade exhibit of high test cows being shown. Good russet milk cows will be exhibited and from this collection the best array of show animals will be selected.

Encouraging progress was made in the tentative selection of Guernseys for several outstanding animals were found Saturday.

H. C. Taylor, Beldot, noted Jersey breeding and judge, will aid Nishet in the selection of the Jersey herd to represent the county. The program calls for inspection of several Jersey herds on Wednesday.

tions which are obviously within its proper province, and which are not in all its aspects as it relates to international commerce the importation and exportation of liquors, the collection of federal revenue, the regulation of interstate commerce, and in general the enforcement of the law within the proper realm of federal authority. But the business of local enforcement, by states and local authorities, of the laws of the state and local authorities, and it should be executed in all sincerity and good faith, as other laws are permitted to be executed.

—Date of statement.

“What I am saying must not be construed as indicating any relaxation of the national government’s purpose to do its duty in this regard, but it does not doubt that, if the burden is cast, in undue proportion, upon the national authority the federal government will not only under such circumstances, but in the future, assume and discharge the full obligation. But I am pointing out that this ought not to be made necessary, as the situation may be, by the pressure imposed by the political and the administrative machinery of the whole country. For myself, I am confident that we are passing through a difficult period, during which time of this matter, and that as time passes there will be a more and more willing acceptance by authorities everywhere of the ultimate obligation of local enforcement. The country and the nation will not permit the law of the land to be made a byword.

—State’s Position.

“It is a curious indication of loose thinking that some people have proposed, as a means to protecting the fullest rights of the states, that it should be left to the states to act in enforcing the prohibitory policy. That means simply an invitation to the federal government to exercise powers which should be exercised by the states, instead of, in the assertion of state rights, it is an abandonment of them; it is an abdication; it amounts to a confession by the state that it doesn’t want to do its duty, and it doesn’t want to turn the task, or a considerable part of it, over to the federal authority.

There could be no more complete negation of state rights.

“I am not in agreement with this matter to the best and best sentiments of law-abiding Americans everywhere. We must recognize that there are some people in this country in whose minds it is absolutely paramount. Some would be willing to sacrifice every other consideration of policy in order to have the country act to the point that constitutes one of the most demoralizing factors in the situation.

Still in Politics.

“It was very generally believed that the adoption of the constitutional amendment would take the question out of politics, but that has not been done, so far, though I venture to predict that neither of the great parties will see the time, within the lives of any who are now living, when it will be openly for the adoption of the eighteenth amendment. But despite all that, the question is kept in politics because of the almost fanatical opposition of a majority of economists on both sides. Likewise, through the recognition and acceptance of the situation in its true light, through the effective enforcement of the law by the states, and through the public opinion, with the acquiescence of the clearly dominant public opinion of the country, the question is definitely removed from politics. The political party will continue to be a demoralizing element in our whole public life. It will be a permanent bar to the wise determination of many issues, utterly unrelated to the law, upon which the means of encouraging disrespect for many laws, it will bring disrepute upon our community, and be pointed to as justifying the efforts we are making to sustain the law. There can be no issue in this, and paramount to that of enforcement of the law.

It is easy to understand the condition of the law, which, if it is developed, is not easy to comprehend so much complacency, amid a developing peril. I want to give warning against that peril.

—About Liquor.

“Many citizens, not teetotalers, in their habits, lawfully acquired stores of private stock, in anticipation of prohibition, and the enforcement of the amendment and the enactment of the regulatory law. Many others have had no scruple in seeking supplies from those who were in defiance of the law. The latter practice, however, too easily to be indulged in by the masses, so there are literally Americans who resent the lawful possession of a law, the lawless possession of a few more, and rebel against the denial to the vast majority. Universal prohibition in the United States would occasion far less dissatisfaction, less prohibition and partial indulgence.

“It is the partial indulgence which challenges the modesty of law, and, on the greater part, is the fundamental cause of the moral decline of the republic. The resentful millions have the example of law defiance by those who can afford to buy, and the people who are forced to take the risk, and there is an inherent contempt for law which may some day find expression in the most serious form.

“I do not know how any citizen who cherishes the protection of law in organized society may feel himself secure when he himself is in the example of law defiance, and the consequent call for awakened conscience and awakened realization of true self-interest on the part of the few who will then be in a position to break the law and give them the most protection.

“The kind of law which, when violated, may be the most severe, is the law which, in the greatest part, is the most despised by the people of the republic. Our law must be a law-abiding, public, and reverent and obedient law, and the law must be the infallible and the leading among men, as well as obedience from the humblest citizen, else the temple will collapse.

“Whatever satisfaction there may be in the wrong, when the violation is to the so-called invasion of personal liberty, neither counts when the supremacy of law and the stability of institutions are at stake. With all good intention, the amendment of the United States has sought by law to remove strong drink, as a curse upon the American citizen, but ours is a larger problem, now to remove lawless drinking as a menace to the republic itself.”

SUNSHINE SOCIETY AIDS BLIND BABIES

Founder Tells of Association's Progress—Melrose Address es Convention Here.

13 years ago with the hope it would awaken the world to its obligations to meet the desperate need of saving the blind babies, the International Sunshine society has secured in several states for the blind babies and many children have been started on the road to a successful life.

Mrs. Cynthia Westerup Alden, president and founder of the International Sunshine society, told the American Association of Workers for the Blind here Saturday of the struggle these 13 years in realizing the ambition of the organization.

Mrs. Alden is the wife of John Alden, former editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, and herself a newspaper-woman, having edited the women's page on the old New York Recorder and was one of the editors of the Ladies Home Journal between 1899 and 1910.

Blind babies pitiable.

Give the blind babies a chance in the world and help secure legislation for their benefit was the plan of Mrs. Alden.

A baby born blind or blinded in infancy presents a strangely pitiable condition, said Mrs. Alden, and it is a condition in mind that limitations combine to stunt.

It is physical organs that must be kept in normal operation, she said, and when both eyes receive commonly nine-tenths of the impressions, meaning the earliest education is lacking.

"Our Sunshine Home for the Blind babies in the education as in institutions, not only aim to have, but do have, the character of the family and in consequence the physical training in developing the physically blind both mentally and physically. The type is therefore home and not school.

Discussion was led by Miss Lydia Hassell, executive secretary, New Jersey Commission for the Blind.

Blind Should Be Armed.

A paper by Charles W. Holmes, director of the Canadian Bureau for the Blind and director of the Bureau of the blind in Massachusetts, declared that the state plan adequately meets the needs with the least cost to the Commonwealth, allowing centralized administration which is sound and should be given deep consideration, he said.

Mr. Holmes added that American Association of Workers for the Blind should know whether it may help to bring about desired changes in proper administration of blind relief, declared the representative of the Blind, but a free agency was best in a position to attempt in bringing about reforms, where needed, and securing proper legislation in states where legislation is pending.

Alcohol Endangers Eyes.

Dr. Lewis Carris, New York, field secretary of the National Committee on the Prevention of Blindness, addressed the convention of State Societies on the筹筹ing of State Societies in the Prevention of Blindness in the Prevention of Blindness.

He said that as soon as the public realized that the main task of blind relief is social activity, it is ready to take it over as a part of government activities. Among the state governors for example, the state to which he belongs is the one in which the regulation of sale of wood and denatured alcohol, making sold alcohol poisons, is proposed. Dr. Carris said there is a growing need for a realization by the public of the dangers of alcohol to the user of sight.

Charles W. Holmes, Toronto, Canada, delivered a report on the committee on the revision of the constitution of the American Association of Workers for the Blind and Radio Religion.

A new hand embossing of books made by Miss Adelia Hoyt, Washington, D. C., a brother, Charles and two granddaughters, Mrs. Edmund Ehrenreich and Miss Louise Bowerman, and two grandsons, all of Janesville.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Tuesday morning and funeral services will be held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon from the Attica church. Burial will be in the Attica cemetery.

No Meeting in Year.

The fact that no report has been made to the secretary of state and that F. E. Simon, secretary and treasurer of the corporation denies all knowledge of the books and records, is detailed.

The names of the defendants were taken off the last annual report to the state April 1, 1922, and it is charged no meetings of the stockholders has been held since.

Hearing July 2.

Judge George Grimm has signed an order, following the filing of an affidavit, for a hearing on July 2 to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed and the books be produced before the litigation is settled.

"There is a total of $227,502 involved, according to the last report we have been able to find," reports Attorney Grubb. "We want to know what happened to the money."

Violation of the corporation laws of the state is charged in that no accounting is reported and no officers are maintaining the state.

The plaintiffs have not been able to learn of any banking account in Wisconsin, or have they been able to locate any of the securities, or property," reads the complaint.

"The plaintiffs are informed and believe that said corporation is not now engaged in business of any kind, but the plaintiffs allege that the corporation has been engaged in the general religious church.

It has the community unit, the natural unit as against the groups within the church.

Radio as a means of communication in intercommunication.

This increase in intercommunication has been disintegrating in group types of church.

Restraining Order Asked

The plaintiffs ask an injunction order to pay all money to the receiver and demand an accounting.

R. F. H. has filed a complaint for injunction.

Colonel "Doc" Morris-Such makes an urgent request, and this is serious.

"We need four eight-horse drivers and 100 or more clowns for the parade," he said. "We wish a large number of men to help with the care of animals and horses and especially to leave their names and addresses at the office of the Chamber of Commerce."

There will be no motor vehicles or any advertising permitted in the parade.

Senator Lenroot on Railroads

Before the Travelers' Protective Association in national convention at St. Paul, Senator Lenroot warned the railroad executives that public ownership was sure to come if they did not stop their contributions of material argument to demagogues who used the attitude of the railroads to create unrest and dissatisfaction. There was no mincing of words. "Freight rates are too high," he declared. "Railroad executives do little to secure the public good will," and "There is no sign of reduction in excessive salaries paid officials,"

were other points made by the Wisconsin senator.
He was not in favor of public ownership but predicted that it would come if the present evils were not eliminated. He emphasized the effect which the attitude of the executives was having in political fields and the ammunition which that attitude was manufacturing for demagogues who had no other final remedy for any of the ills and evils but that of public ownership. "In spite of the shortcomings of the railroads under private ownership," Senator Lenroot said, "public ownership

would be infinitely worse."

The senator was clear and emphatic that he would not join the radicals in the effort to destroy private property simply because of the short sightedness of the executives but would make every effort to remedy the evils by legislation.

The railroad question will loom large in the next session of Congress. No effort worth mentioning has heretofore been made toward amending the Esch-Cummins law and making it more effective or eliminating any of the sections which two years of experience has shown to be unnecessary. The railroads have their special plead-ers and their representatives while the radicals who see no remedy and want none but public ownership have numerous mouthpieces. What we need is some one who will speak for the people and the masses who use the railroads both for the freight and passenger service and have heretofore had no advocates. Senator Lenroot has voiced the sentiments of the public in a considerable degree and that is exactly what we want.

This Is Not a Fish Story

Assemblyman James Pederson of Marinette, a progressive, believes in legislatures and that service

hath its own reward—when properly managed. In the chronicle of the actions of the assembly of June 22, 1923, is this sentence under
"Bills Passed":

"By Pederson, making appropriation to James Pederson of Marinette, for fish illegally confiscated."

The "Pederson," by whom the bill was introduced is the same James Pederson to whom the appropriation will go providing the measure gets through the senate and passes the veto arm of the governor.

It isn't so much—only $150—that Mr. Pederson wants for "fish" as the news item reads, but it is something new in legislation and typical of the present legislature. There are scores of other bills about as bad and about as foolish in legislation. It happens that the assemblyman is a fisherman—and it is said he is a good one and has made money in the industry which characterizes both shores of Green Bay. But Pederson sold some nets and took a note for them. Later the nets were being used it is alleged, in illegal fishing and both nets and fish were confiscated.
Then Mr. Pederson, having no way of getting his pay, returned the note and assumed ownership of the fish according to the evidence and story told in Madison. For the note Mr. Pederson wanted $150 and he has succeeded in getting his bill through the assembly.

In the meantime the assembly members have had fish dinners—many of them. Boxes of fresh fish on ice have come from Marinette with the compliments of James Pederson to members of the assembly and they have eaten them with evident
increased interest in having him get his $150. Mr.
Matheson voted against the bill. So did Mr.
Moseley.

Of course the great state of Wisconsin will never miss the $150. There are other sums that will not be missed, but they all amount to a larger sum that will be substantial in the final analysis of the legislature's action. However it is not on record that a member of the assembly has heretofore introduced a bill to reimburse himself for losses either real or fancied.

New York might annex the three-mile limit.

Much of the time of the legislature is used in passing resolutions memorializing congress to do or not to do something or other. Congress yawns and has them printed in the record where they are lost forever.

Over at Elkhorn the band concert committee has issued an ultimatum against the cachers and conversationalists at band concerts. "There

HIGH COST OF DISHONESTY

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—The high cost of dishonesty is a problem to cause concern to the American people.
Last year an army of burglars, robbers, embezzlers, forgers, confidence men, bucket-shop operators, and common thieves levied a tax on the United States that is estimated by one of the large surety companies to aggregate the sum of $8,25,000,000.

This is approximately equal to the entire internal revenue receipts of the Federal government for the last fiscal year and is the equivalent of a per capita tax on the entire population of the country of more than $30.

And it does not include the tribute that has been exacted by bootleggers from those who persist in defying the prohibition amendment.

The items in this appalling bill which creeps collected in one year in the United States are:
Stock frauds, land frauds, and confidence games,
$2,000,000,000; burglary and theft, $525,000,000;
embezzlement and defalcation, $125,000,000;
fraudulent bankruptcy and credit swindles, $100, 000,000; bad debts owing, wholesale and retail,
merchants, $150,000,000; worthless checks cashed
by merchants, $100,000,000; forgery, $25,000, 000; graft, looting of the public domain and conversion of public property, $200,000,000.

The expert who made the estimate says he makes no claim of accuracy except as to minimums and says that the total is probably nearer $4,000,000,000. Another authority fixes the first item in the list at $2,000,000,000 instead of $2, 000,000,000 and insists that he is conservative!

The individual who has not bought any worthless
stocks, whose home has not been burglarized, whose automobile has not been stolen, or whose pocket has not been picked, may think he is not paying any part of this crime budget, but he is mistaken. When the merchants of the country marked off $150,000,000 in bad accounts they charged this loss to operating expenses and the honest consumers pay the bill, and if the average citizen dodged his crime assessment everywhere else he would still have to pay a share of it in the taxes that go to support and maintain the expenses of the law that combat the forces of dishonesty.

Included in the army that preys on honest people we can have pirates who operate in and about the harbors of the country. In New York harbor alone piracy amounted to $50,000,000 in one year and in the other seaports it was probably at least half that sum.

Closely akin to these depredations is the stealing of freight from railroads. In a twelve-month period the railroads of the United States paid claims totaling more than $20,000,000 for thefts of freight, and this could not be said to represent the actual losses in this direction.

Automobile thefts run into the startling figures of $100,000,000. In five cities, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Los Angeles, 8,420 stolen automobiles were not recovered, and in one city, Philadelphia, of 3,832 stolen almost a third were not recovered. In New York, 6,808 were stolen, of which 3,857 were not recovered.
Automobile theft insurance which was something less than 1 per cent of the valuation of automobiles ten years ago is now 5 or 6 per cent.

Bradstreet's records for 1922 show that of the failures of business firms throughout the United States $85 were due directly to fraud and speculation. In these cases the liabilities exceeded the assets by more than $30,000,000, but this does not tell the story of what the creditors actually realized from the assets and hence is not truly indicative of the total loss. Also these records do not cover bucket shop failures and cases of dishonest individuals who go into bankruptcy to escape paying their debts.

There are more than 600,000 retail stores of various kinds in the country, and according to the figures of the United States Chamber of Commerce the retail sales of consumption goods last year was $25,000,000,000. This excludes such items as locomotives, farm machinery,
building materials, tools, etc. etc. that will probably total an equal sum. Thus it is apparent that the possibilities and probabilities of losses through bad accounts and through worthless
checks are enormous. If the retail stores, for instance, averaged a loss of $150 on bad
checks the total would be more than $100,000, 000, and they are by no means the only victims
of this kind of fraud.

Last year more than 18,000 cases of embezzlement
were reported to surety companies, an average of about sixty for every working day. The losses paid by these surety companies on account of embezzlements increased from $1,336,081 in 1910 to $8,270,000 in 1921. During the same period the losses paid on account of burglary increased from $886,045 to $11,500,000. Here again the losses paid do not represent actual losses on these accounts, because all losses are not insured and many claims are not allowed because the policy holder has not observed all the precautions or conditions stipulated in the policy.

Prior to the world war the insurance experts estimated that there were three burglaries to every fire. Now they have increased this ratio to seven burglaries for each fire. One half the persons in prison are there for crimes against property.

Ten train holdups and twenty mail truck hold-ups in one year netted bands a haul of United States mail valued at more than three million dollars. The jewelers of the country lost ten millions in thefts.

Philadelphia with approximately 1.7 of the population of the country had 10,205 robberies and larcenies in one year, according to police records, with total loss of $1,500,000 exclusive of automobiles. Chicago's theft and robbery loss for 1922, exclusive of automobiles, amounted to $3,301,700, of which more than two-thirds was not recovered.

New York City's police report for 1921 showed a total of 41,056 crimes against property that were reported to the authorities. This included 1,175 embezzlements; 1,197 robberies and hold-ups; 6,558 burglaries; 320 forgeries; 30,900 larcenies
and more than 6,000 automobile stolen.

In this same city the fraudulent stock loss each year is estimated at more than one hundred million dollars, and New York is popularly supposed to be inhabited by people who are too wise to be caught or victimized by the dealers in blue sky!

In the meantime the assembly members have
had fish dinners—many of them. Boxes of fresh
fish on ice have come from Marinette with the compliments of James Pederson to members of the
assembly and they have eaten them with evident
increased interest in having him get his $150. Mr.

THE ROBIN
A robin, singing in a tree,
Saw something that I couldn't see.

Here in the self-same world, thought I,
We dwell beneath the open sky.

Yet richer is my lot than yours,
I dwell behind these friendly doors.

I have a roost above my head,
Within a nest you make your bed.

I am safe sheltered from the rain,
And yet I whimper and complain.

Red-breasted bird, you are the prey
Of Cunne's foes both night and day.

Cold blows the wind where you abide,
Scarce is the food you must provide.

And yet despite the cares which sting,
With every rising sun you sing!

From your high place, courageous bird,
Your song of happiness is heard.

Surely, red robin, you must see Something denied to men like me.

Against the pain and care of strife
You sing the glorious song of life.

While I go, blinded by my care,
Waiting the burdens I must bear.

Surely, with all my strength to do,
I ought to be as brave as you.

Surely the countless joys I see
Should make a singer out of me.

ANOTHER MARATHON

In a Long Island port town,
The men have every year

An eating contest.

And it's a great event.

And a most expensive one.

Men come from far and near

To try their appetites.

And the winner gets a prize.

It was held the other day.

And the brawny sons of toil

Gathered at the tables.

One man who succeeded in Eating a whole log of mutton,

Two roast chickens and eggs

To the number of three dozen

Was declared the winner.

He was escorted home in triumph:

But said to his companion:

"Don't tell my wife about this

Or she won't get me any supper."

The Turkish army hasn't been paid in five

It looks like a poor time for Greece to start any

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Many hours, with a giant Swede girl, Thora, lives on the plateau on top of Ghost Mountain, in Arizona. Peter Sheridan, New York lawyer, with tuberculosis, is a patient, on the mountain. Peter has a wife, a nice, clean girl, and is recovering his health. His inseparable companion is Red Jackson, foreman of the ranch. They rescue a Chinaman, Quon, from a band of Indians, who are the rustlers. Peter finds a way to the ranch on top of the mountain and foils an attempt of the bad gang of Indians to anise the woman he loves in love with Choo. Hollister, swearing revenge, kidnaps Mary and takes her to the Bonanza mine. On the way he drinks poison insecticide, and staggers about, lost. Mary, alone, is rescued later by Peter. She has ridden after her. Tales of marvelous gold in the canyon are told. Quon, who is a Chinaman, keeps a gambling house in San Francisco, reveals the location of the caves and the gold there ready to be taken out. Sheridan and other men, in a expedition to go in search of the treasure.

"Where do you suppose they got the cars and who guided them here?" asked Sheridan. The questions had been troubling them. They promised to be a respite after this attack that had ended in their favor.

"I think they bought the cars in Los Angeles," said Quon. "They would come through Imperial Valley and Yuma and Prescott. You would be surprised, away down in Arizona for his men. Even if he could get them, the publicity would be dangerous. They would travel by night and take cover in the daytime. As far as guide, he would leave the cars outside Pioche or Mescal and go in himself to find a Chinaman of his description and the way to this place. Hau Fu speaks Spanish fluently. I imagine he would talk to Mexicans. He could almost pass for a Mexican himself in the proper clothes. He is clever enough to think of all that."

"I'll let a month's wages he ran across Pedro," exclaimed Jackson.

TODAY'S RECIPES

SOUR MILK PANCAKES—This time of year one often has quantities of sour milk on hand in spite of the greatest care being taken to keep it fresh. Various good things can be made out of it, one of them being cream cheese. That is another story, though. Very good pancakes may also be made, using sour milk in place of sweet. One or two eggs, beaten light, one teaspoon of sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one pint of sour milk with a level teaspoon of baking powder dissolved in it to make a batter. A little melted butter may also be added—it adds to the tenderness of the cakes.

Children's Favorite.—The luncheon menu may sound rather slim, but you notice the ingredients of the bacon dish, so you will realize that it contains all the food elements necessary for a meal. The cookies were added merely to "finish up." They are really not needed. Mix milk, eggs, sugar, and any flavoring, as for custard. Cut stale bread into inch slices, dip in custard mixture and fry in butter a golden brown. When cool (not cold) top with whipped cream or custard. Children are especially fond of this.

Hamburg with Beans—Put one tablespoon of fat in skillet. When hot add one pound hamburg; season with salt and pepper. Stir until no raw meat is to be seen, then add one can red kidney beans, one can chili sauce and some onions. Let it simmer for at least a half hour.

Chocolate Sauce for Ice Cream—One cup sugar, one tablespoon flour or cornstarch, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons cocoa or one square chocolate, one cup hot water. Mix dry ingredients, add hot water, stir smooth and cook until thick. Pour over ice cream.

Strawberry Sauce—One cup of powdered sugar, one-third cup of butter creamed together, one egg white and yolk beaten separately; add to creamed sugar and stir one cup of crushed strawberries. Serve over cake or ice cream.

CANNING AND PRESERVING—Strawberry Preserves—Three quarts strawberries, two pounds sugar, one lemon. Add to sugar two cups of water and let this syrup come to a boil, then add the strawberries and cook slowly for about an hour, or longer, by allowing a small portion to stand. Wash the thoroughly and drain well. Cut the strawberries in pieces and allow to cook for about 15 minutes before taking from the fire. By adding the lemon it gives a very fine tart flavor.

Cherry Conserve—Two pounds cherries, one orange, four cups of sugar, one-half lemon. Wash and pit cherries, wash and remove the seeds from the orange and lemon and put through a strainer and mix. Combine the ingredients and cook until the mixture thickens. Pour into sterilized glasses, cool, and cover with paraffin.

EVANSVILLE

Mrs. L. E. MILLER, being well attended considering the interest shown, Saturday night the tent was filled to see the play, "Six Cylinder Love," about 50 children took part in the Chautauqua parade Saturday afternoon.

Lloyd Howlett, Evansville, and Miss Minnie Johnson, Brooklyn, were married Saturday in Stoughton. After a camping trip they will make their home in the groom's mother's home on Liberty street.

C. J. Lawton, former salesman for the Baker Manufacturing company for the northern part of the state, died June 20 at his home in Madison. He was well known here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack DeWolf, DeWolf, visited the latter's sister Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Seguin, Charles Seguin and Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Losey visited friends in Beloit Sunday.

Mr. J. C. McMurtry went to Fennimore to attend a Preston reunion Sunday. Sue will visit relatives at Platteville and Preston before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilder, Chicago, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steckelton and son, Bonham, and Jim Curtis, Milwaukee, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. L. R. Edwards.

Mrs. Joe Curtis and son Ralph, who have been visiting the Edwards' home for two weeks, returned with the Kansas City audience would be inescapable if some plan of consolidation under "vigorous government supervision" were not put into effect.

W. A. Neveder, Mr. Harding's idea is that the larger systems should be so constituted that the weaker and unprofitable lines will be left on the stronger and profitable ones until the stronger ones pick up all of the load. Just return upon the capital invested.

The one trouble about communities in this part of America is that they disbelieve the hard luck stories of the transportation companies. They generally have an idea of the transportation companies are making all kinds of money. That may or may not be true, but it is going to be hard to put into effect a plan of substantial guarantees to the railroads which come out of the public pocket-book.

Lower rates, also, inasmuch as consolidation of the railroads is admitted of no avail under the voluntary system because the railroads profit by it, they can't reconcile this with their claim that the only chance of getting them to agree to "voluntary" consolidation would be to stimulate the consumption of the railroads to make them profit by it.

Mr. Harding would propose a higher limit of railroad profits than they now are permitted to earn and that he will be guided in this on the theory that ultimately it will bring lower freight rates to the farmer.

World Keep Heard, than the president announced that the railroads are to be consolidated of the no avail under the voluntary system because the railroads profit by it, they can't reconcile this with their claim that the only chance of getting them to agree to "voluntary" consolidation would be to stimulate the consumption of the railroads to make them profit by it.
